C.G. Jung and Hildegard of Bingen...Soulmates?

Lecture by Peg Monaghan-Shannon

Fee: $8-members, $12-non-members

Visionary, musical composer, writer, medical doctor, counselor, theologian, abbess – Hildegard of Bingen, Benedictine nun of the 12th Century was all of these things. What accounts for her sudden popularity 800 years later in such disparate circles as the New Age movement and the Catholic Church? Jung was familiar with Hildegard, describing her as “an outstanding personality quite apart from her mysticism.”

In this interactive and multimedia presentation we will look at the life of Hildegard of Bingen, examine connections to Carl Jung and together ponder the question: What does the rise of cultural interest in Hildegard mean, synchronistically, for our present age?

Peg Monaghan-Shannon has studied Jung and recorded her dreams since 1976. She holds a Master's Degree in psychology, a certificate as a Spiritual Director and was a member of the Jungian Study Group through the Jung Institute in Denver for five years. Interest in Hildegard drew her to pilgrimage to the Birthing Visions Conference in Rudesheim, Germany, in 2013. Peg is a member of the Jung Society and on staff at St. Patrick Church as Servant for Pastoral Care.*

February 8, 2014 - 9:30 – 12:30

Saturday Workshop: Mandala Psychology through Creative Expression

Fee: $30-members, $35-non-members

Jung spoke often of the Mandala and its significance in our journey toward wholeness. In this workshop we will explore “mandala psychology”, what Jung meant by it and how we know it in our lives. There will be an opportunity to create a mandala experientially through art work and movement, guided by Kamara. It will be a morning of relaxation and reflection. Wear comfortable clothing. You are welcome to bring art materials and art materials will also be provided. Snacks will be available (no lunch break). Please call Kathryn at 719-527-0622 for a reservation.

Workshop Leaders: Kathryn Kuisle, Ph.D., Jungian Analyst, and Kamara McAndrews, MA, LMFT, DAACS, Couples and Sex Therapist.

Kathryn Kuisle is a Jungian Analyst with a private practice in Colorado Springs. She is a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich and holds a Ph.D. in analytical psychology. She is on the faculty at the C.G Jung Institute of Colorado in Denver and Regis University. She is on the staff of the Jung Conference on Spirituality and Psychology in Einsiedelin, Switzerland.*

Kamara McAndrews is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, earning her MA in psychology from New College of California in San Francisco. Her previous experience includes individual psychodynamic talk therapy, sex abuse therapy, sex education and sex counseling, substance abuse recovery, group, couples, family and child therapy including sand* tray and play therapy. Her private practice is in Colorado Springs.

Wisdom of Changes
Richard Wilhelm & The I Ching
Fee: $8-members, $12-non-members

This evening will be a film by Bettina Wilhelm, granddaughter of Richard Wilhelm. The film gives the history Richard Wilhelm, a man who spent more than 20 years as a Christian missionary in China, but who never converted one person to Christianity. He became deeply immersed in the old Chinese Culture and worked with a Chinese scholar to translate the I Ching, The Book of Changes. It is the story of a deeply introverted and spiritual man in his search to find his own soul. When he returned to Europe, he met Carl Jung. They became close colleagues and friends as Jung became a student of the I Ching.

Discussion to follow.

*Facilitated by: Kathryn Kuisle, PhD, Jungian Analyst and members of the C.G. Jung Society.

Friday, April 11, 2014 – 7 p.m.
The Re-Emergence of the Sacred
Presented by Dr. Donna Cozort,
Jungian Analyst
Fee: $8-members, $12-non-members

The presentation will be a story about trauma and the terror and treachery of coping with Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) as well as the challenging journey back to life. It is the story of a relationship between two strong and caring women: Mary, a former combat nurse, re-living all the horror and despair of her experiences in the Vietnam War, and her Jungian analyst, Dr. Donna Cozort (the presenter), who helped Mary to unearth, integrate, and learn from the brutal memory she'd kept at bay for twenty-six years. Dr. Cozort will tell Mary's story as she experienced it -- piecing together the fragments of Mary's history, struggling to contain Mary's terrors, and gradually recognizing, by way of dreams, reactions, and intuition that Mary's psychological state might yield to its amplified reflection in the biblical story of Job. A series of Mary's real life pictures both before and after her trauma along with her revealing pictures will also be shown. Anyone treating trauma, especially PTSD will find this personally moving and spiritually discerning account of the therapeutic process as it unfolds in time most enlightening.

Donna Cozort is a clinical psychologist and Jungian analyst in Dallas. A Diplomate of the C.G. Jung Institute of Zurich, Dr. Cozort is a training analyst for the Inter-Regional Society of Jungian Analysts, where she served as Director of Training for four years. She is the professional sponsor of the Jung Society of North Texas and a member of the Dallas Institute, AGAP and IAAP. Her book, Out of the Whirlwind: PTSD & the Archetype of Job, documents her experience in treating trauma and PTSD.

Exploring the Archetypes: Divine Doorways into the Unconscious Hermes, God of Thievery and Commerce

Presented by Sharon Coggan, Ph.D.

Entry: $8-members, $12-non-members

Jung's core concept of archetypes as energy forms in consciousness is explored through a focus on classical religion. We will meet the twelve Olympians, note their archetypal resonances, and zero in on one particularly compelling deity, Hermes, God of communication. He is seen everywhere today, as people are transfixed by their methods of electronic communication. Hermes, God of thieves, was born at dusk and had stolen the cattle of Apollo before dawn. His story is wonderfully entertaining, yet profound. As the element mercury, named for his Latin counterpart, is tricky and belies appearances, so is the God whose name it bears. Mercury remains in-between, its freezing and melting points being very low and high. It appears so smooth and sensual, yet handling it can poison us! Thus, Hermes signifies the in-between state, and clearly the dark side is well represented. Hermes was deemed the God of communication, and everything else that happens in the in-betweens. Most importantly, he functions as the agent of transformation of consciousness, so important in Jungian thought that Jung dedicated an entire essay to it, "The Spirit Mercurius". This exploration of a rich archetype of the European legacy will helpfully whet the appetite of our audience to want to explore further the vast wealth offered in classical mythology.

Sharon L. Coggan, Ph.D. earned a Master of Theological Studies from Harvard Divinity School, a Master of Arts in Religious Studies from Stanford University, and the Ph.D. in Religious Studies from Syracuse University. She teaches at the University of Colorado Denver, where she serves as Associate Professor, Clinical Teaching Track, and as Director of the Religious Studies Program. She serves on the Board of Directors of the C. G. Jung Society of Colorado. She is currently writing a book on themes in early Christianity and Greek religion. In the Jungian area, she teaches classes on: Myth and Symbol, Classical Mythology, Perspectives on Dream Analysis, and the Hero's Journey.
