Beginning the Odyssey: The Dimming of the Old Sun and the Rising of the New Moon

Lecture by Christine Chapman, Diplomate Jungian Analyst

In our Monday night reading group study of Jung's Red Book, we've been learning that the psychic material which erupted during Jung's late 30's continued to inform his psychological work for the rest of his life. This made me think of a poem that I wrote as a young woman in my 20's, and how that poem has stayed close in my thinking since that time.

Inspired by Jung taking his own early material seriously, I worked to amplify the themes in the poem and have come to the conclusion that this creative material from young adulthood already reflects my lifelong individuation themes. I hope this talk might encourage you to work with your own early dreams, drawings or poetry, and to value anew how the Self has been in ongoing communication with you throughout life.

Christine Chapman, Diplomate Jungian Analyst, is a graduate of the Research and Training Center for Depth Psychology according to CG Jung and Marie-Louise von Franz in Zurich, Switzerland. She has an analytical practice here in Colorado Springs and continues working as a clinical psychologist and analyst in Australia. She specializes in the feminine aspects of the psyche in Depth Psychology.
